Overview

Departure: Monday to Saturday

Discover the capital cities of Nicaragua, the largest country in Central America. It borders Honduras to the north and Costa Rica to the south. Nicaragua is home to two large lakes: Lago de Managua (Xolotlan) and Lago de Nicaragua (Cocibolca). The latter is the largest in Central America and is the only one with freshwater sharks in the world.

- City of Managua, capital of the nation

Managua is the capital city of Nicaragua, seat of the government and the powers of the State. It is located in western Nicaragua, on the southwest coast of Lake Xolotlán or Lake Managua, it is the largest city in the country in terms of population and geographic extension. The city originates from a historic pre-Columbian town that was elevated to a town in 1819, then to a city in 1846, declared Capital of the Nation in 1852.

- Colonial City of León, the first capital of the country

The city of León was the first city founded in what is now Nicaragua in the year 1524 by Francisco Hernández de Córdoba, in a place that the indigenous people called "Nagarando". It was located in the middle of the Imabite Province, on a flat terrain next to Lake Xolotlán and in front of the Momotombo volcano. This location is about 30 km from the current city of León and is known as León Viejo, whose ruins have become a tourist attraction and a UNESCO World Heritage Site.

- Colonial City of Granada, tourism capital of Nicaragua

It was founded in 1524 by the Spanish captain Francisco Hernández de Córdoba, which makes it the oldest of the two colonial cities that Nicaragua has and the first city on the American mainland.
