Overview

Departure: Daily | minimum: 2 pax

San Juan River, also known as El Desaguadero ("the drain"), is a wild river expedition of a 199 kilometre (120 mi) river that flows east out of Lake Nicaragua into the Caribbean Sea. A large section of the border between Nicaragua and Costa Rica runs on the right (southern) bank of the river. It was part, with the lake, of a proposed route for a Nicaragua Canal in the 19th century. The San Juan River is home to freshwater bull sharks that also go into Lake Nicaragua in addition to a wide array of marine life and abundant biodiversity. It is property of Nicaragua and it's the perfect place for fishing and nature lovers.
