DAY 1 | ARRIVAL IN ECUADOR

Transfer to airport to hotel.

Welcome to Ecuador!

Although it is the smallest of the Andean countries - half the size of France - Ecuador is a mega diverse country that has everything it takes to offer its travellers superb experiences, as varied as they are unforgettable, from the Andes to the Amazon, from the Pacific coast to the mythical Galapagos archipelago.

The country's greatest asset remains its people: welcoming, jovial, proud of their country's natural and cultural treasures, and eager to share their know-how, knowledge, traditions and gastronomy.

You'll be met at the airport by your guide, who will welcome you to his country and accompany you to your hotel in the historic centre.

The city of Quito is perched at an altitude of 2,800 m, making it the 2nd highest capital in the world. Renowned for its colonial architecture, the capital's natural environment is not to be outdone: bordered by the eastern and western ranges of the Andes, the city was founded on the slopes of the Pichincha volcano.

After a delicious lunch, you'll visit one of the most interesting museums in the country. La Casa del Alabado houses an impressive collection of pre-Columbian objects, true testimonies of the way of life of the different civilizations that once lived on the lands that are now Ecuadorian

Day 04

DAY 4 | YASUNÍ NATIONAL PARK

Activities with the lodge.

You will be divided into small groups, each accompanied by a native guide of the region with knowledge of the medicinal plants of the Amazon and a bilingual naturalist guide with knowledge of the biology and ecology of the area. Depending on the wealth, the day of exploration begins at sunrise to make the most of the coolness. This is the time of day when animals are most active. In the afternoon the activities can extend until sunset, where the night concert of insects and frogs begins. The activities will allow you to explore different fascinating ecosystems.

Trails will allow you to observe very closely the "Ceibo", trees with aerial roots that pierce the sky from the top of their 50m height. Other paths have been built on raised wooden platforms. You can then cross over the ground sometimes flooded by the rains without a problem. A pod will also allow you to fly over a swamp.

You can also choose activities closer to the water such as canoeing through rivers and lakes. By making almost no noise you will multiply your chances to observe the shyest animals: sloths, dolphins, monkeys, pumas... At night, the light of the flashlights reflects off the eyes of caimans or snakes.

The 43m high observation tower is one of the favourite activities for travellers. Located on a hill, 30 minutes' walk from the lodge, this tower offers a splendid and unique view above the canopy. The trick is to climb the tower at sunrise or sunset. The birds are then very active in search for food and the monkeys can mingle with the show. With the telescopes the guides will also be able to look for three-clawed sloths.

If you want to go even higher, the Sacha Lodge offers a new activity: a cabin suspended more than 45 m from the ground. This attraction offers a 360° remote control tour with a metal gimbal going back and forth and top to bottom!

You will be able to observe toucans and monkeys even closer thanks to this unique way to appreciate the Ecuadorian Amazon!

In the butterfly house we will explain their life cycle. You will be able to observe hundreds of multicolour butterflies.

One of the most popular places in the Yasuní Biosphere Reserve is the parrot clay wall. At the end of a path of about thirty minutes you will arrive at the clay wall where parrots and parakeets come to take the minerals essential to their well-being. You can see up to 11 species of birds and maybe even some mammals like howler monkeys, tapirs and peccaries.

As warriors, the Cañaris fought against the Incas for a long time before eventually submitting, notably through a royal marriage. Typically, these invaders would destroy the cultures they conquered.
