Rise early to the sound of the temple gong to witness Luang Prabang's mystical ritual. Walk downtown to watch the daily procession of about three hundred young monks who silently walk and collect sticky rice and other food in their bronze bowls. The ritual is linked to a Buddhist tradition where monks beg for their daily food to demonstrate humility.

If you would like to be involved in the offering of food, your guide will be more than happy to show you the respectful way to interact with monks.

Feel free to take photos; however, please use discretion and refrain from using your flash. Enjoy the rest of your morning with a stroll through the hustle and bustle of Luang Prabang's morning market where you will see the locals haggling for fresh meat, fruit, and vegetables.

Next, you'll hop aboard a boat and cruise the tranquil waters of the Mekong River to the Pak Ou Caves, known locally as Tham Thin that sit at the confluence of the Mekong and Nam Ou Rivers. Along the way you'll observe the daily life along the river. We will also make a short stop at a local village to see the ancient art of weaving on wooden looms still in practice today.

Continue to the Pak Ou Caves, which consist of two limestone caves that have become Buddhist shrines. For hundreds of years, followers have come to the caves to pray and leave behind a statue of Buddha. Nowadays, the caves are packed with statues big and small with more being added each year. After enjoying the breath-taking caves, we have a short walk to the nearby village before cruising downstream back to Luang Prabang.
